now in Mr. and Mrs. John Canfield, Sr., their homes last Friday after visiting Mrs. Woodson's sister, Mrs. Woodson's sister, Mrs. Woodson and their home Saturday evening, Helen Routier, for ten days. During their stay, Mrs. Woodson and were guests of honor at a party at their home Saturday evening. They are deeply appreciative, and so are we, as representatives of our business community. One of their regimental commanders, Colonel Howard S. Wilcox, happens to be an active member of this organization, and one of our most effective community leaders. Thanks again for your great courtesies to our citizens.

Sincerely, William M. Book WHB:MB

Sour cream - that rich, ripened cream with a clear, clean cultured taste - always scores a hit. Good cooks and connoisseurs every where know its merits. No one knows where or how sour cream was discovered but it has held an important place in European kitchens and our grand-mothers, in this country, have used sour cream in their cooking and baking.

The sour cream we know today is a far superior product to that used by our grandmothers. It is cultured not sour: Sweet cream which has been pasteurized and nomogenized is used in its manu facture. A culture, lactic acid bacteria, is added and the cream is kept under controlled temper atures until the desired acidity is reached.

million dollars from the original estimates.

Shortly after the Citizens Research Council talked about millions for Michigan, a panel of seven economists called together by Gov. G. Mennen Williams talked about billions for the nation.

The economists, including William Haber of the University of Michigan and Daniel Fusfeld of Michigan State University, urged expanded management of the million dollars from the original expanded management of the economy of government. They also asked for more spending to

The panel of economists, meeting at Williams' Mackinac Island summer home, paid tribute to the government research that has increased productivity in the field of agriculture.
Williams said much of the praise was directed at the type of research carried out at Michigan

State University. MSU IS ABOUT to start a large research campaign against tuber ulosis in cattle. The university has accepted grants of $245,000 and $65,000 from the federal government for laboratory investigations and field studies. AND ONE OF MICHIGAN'S best known farmers, wheat grow-er-road builder John C. Mackic, has asked for some research into the way of federal government for marketing quotas.

"Recently the Agricultural Stabilization Committee informed me I had overplanted my 15-acre wheat allotment," Highway Com-missioner Mackie said in a letter to Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.). "I plowed under 0.8 acres and cut 0.5 acres of wheat to circumvent paying a fine and to avoid the expense of a law suit. "I am writing you as a member of the Senate Agriculture Com-mittee to ask you to look into the background of the existing highly-inaccurate system of computing acreage used by the ASC."

Mackie said he has been "deluged" with comment from other farmers from throughout Michigan who report similar errors in Mackie had other trouble on his farm. He claimed in court a contractor overcharged him for remodeling. Mackie lost and had to pay.

The highway commissioner's personal affairs were in the news again the day after he lost his court fight with the contractor. Mackie decided he would turn down a $1,000 fund collected by highway contractors who wanted the money to be used for pro-motion of road building activiti-
